250 unit park may ease city housing

BELLE GLADE—A 250-unit trailer park being planned for construction on SR 715 near SR 80 is expected to ease the ever-present Belle Glade housing shortage but some people may be somewhat disenchanted with their roles.

Belle Glade contractor W.H. Acree Jr. Monday cleared the hurdle of getting a commitment for water and sewer service from the city and said the first phase of 98 trailers may be ready for occupancy in approximately 120 days.

Acree said the park will be constructed in four phases. He said the first phase will include 15 acres and the entire development will consist of 40 acres. The park will be located about 800 feet north of SR 80 on SR 715.

"We have a number of trailers parked in violation of city ordinances," City Commissioner William Grear said during a meeting between the commission and Acree Monday. "Is it your intention to allow them to move in or would you want all new trailers?"

"That's up to them," Acree replied. "I'm opening up a private business and if they want to move in, they're welcome."

"It looks," Grear said, turning to City Attorney John Baker, "like this is where we go to court because the temporary permits require the owners to move the trailers to a park when one becomes available."

Non-conforming permits for mobile homes have been a sore point with commissioners for several years and several times the commissioners have attempted to find space within the city for a trailer park with no luck.

Mayor Ralph Kirk agreed with Grear's assessment that this would be a good time to reduce the number of permits by forcing the removal of non-conforming mobile homes to the trailer park being planned by Acree.

"The only thing I'm not too sure I like about this," Grear quipped, "is the number of people we move out to the park, which Mr. Acree has assured us he has no intentions of annexing into the city, who are qualified voters."

"There you go thinking politics instead of the welfare of the city," Kirk said.

The discussion took place after the commission decided on a sizable reduction in what had been suggested Acree should pay for a development fee to receive the water and sewer service.

City Manager Robert R. Sanders recommended the commissioners charge Acree a $34,000 development fee, both to pay for an estimated $72,000 worth of improvements the city would have to make to existing facilities to handle the new sewer load and to pay for its overall impact on the city system.

The charge was based on a $1 charge per gallon of water and sewer. Acree had informed the city the park would use an estimated 21,000 gallons each. Sanders said the city was deducting $8,000 city engineers estimated Acree would have to pay to oversize the lift station on his property.

The city's plan was one of three alternatives presented by the consulting firm of Barker, Osha and Anderson engineers after the

New kind of house proposed to city

BELLE GLADE—An all-new type of "component" house may go up in Sugar Subdivision West in the near future as a model home for prospective homebuilders there if action taken Monday by the city commission is followed through with.

The commissioners wanted a little more information on the all-concrete home and its construction, as well as some legal guidance from the city attorney, before making a final decision but the attitude seemed favorable to W.C. Lutz, the local franchise holder.

Lutz told the commission he would like to buy a single lot on which to place the model home, which he would also later sell. He said the house is built in wall sections made of pre-stressed concrete and showed the commissioners several drawings of styles available.

Lutz, and City Building Inspector Kenneth Retterer, assured the commissioners the house isn't what would be called a modular home, which is prohibited in the subdivision by a city ordinance.

Retterer said he had already looked over plans for structural details and they are sound. West Palm Beach architect William Beebe, who works with the City Community Development Program said he is thinking about using the new style in the CD rehabilitation program.

Lutz said practical homes could be built and sold for $10,000 and up and showed one drawing of a palatial home which is being built for an Arabian Sheik to display the flexibility of the type of construction.

He said the homes will be hurricane proof and has been used in the Caribbean and South America because of their strength and low cost.

Aves. A, B to go 1-way by Nov. 1

BELLE GLADE—A years-long debate over whether 15 one-way Avenues A and B in downtown Belle Glade ended Monday night when city commissioners directed City Manager Robert Sanders to begin the program though there was some question about just how far the changes would stretch.

The commissioners had delayed the question during the July 25 meeting when they were informed one Avenue B merchant, E.T. "Tony" Phillips, felt the one-way would ruin his business at Bell's Cocktail Lounge at 164 S. Main St.

The argument is apparently that customers wouldn't be able to drive directly from the street to the drive-in window for service but would have to drive north on Southwest First Street to an alley and back down another alley between Florida First National Bank and Bell's, or through the bank's parking lot.

Mayor Kirk said Monday, however, that traffic couldn't legally do anything else right now because the alley leading to the drive-in window is one-way, exiting on Avenue B.

Two weeks ago, the commission put off a final decision to give City Manager Robert Sanders a chance to confer with Phillips but Sanders said Monday efforts to

Train derailed

MORE THAN 300 feet of track was twisted into huge curves Sunday night when a locomotive and nine cars of a 45-car train rumbled off the Florida East Coast between West Avenue A and Southwest Avenue D in a derailment that left boxcars sitting flat on the ground little more than 25 feet from nearby mobile homes and wheel trucks half-buried in muck yards away from the nearest cars. FEC work crews have been working for three days to clear away the wreckage, get the cars moved back onto the tracks and laying new trackway. As of Tuesday afternoon, no one was yet aware of what caused the derailment.

Woman gets compromise

Police escort to stay

BELLE GLADE—In a partial reverse, the city will continue to provide police escort service to merchants making deliveries to local banks, but only under five conditions worked out during a meeting Friday.

City police officers have traditionally provided the escort service to city merchants but City Manager Robert R. Sanders, acting under city commission orders, put the merchants on notice last month service would be discontinued Aug. 1.

One of those notices went to Mrs. Margie Womack at the Olde Dining Room, a restaurant on Southeast Avenue D. Mrs. Womack enlisted the aid of local attorney Frank Kreidler to draw up and circulate a petition among area businessmen asking the city to reconsider the decision to withdraw the service.

She presented the petition to the city commission during the commission's July 18 regular meeting and offered a compromise which was the core of the agreement reached Friday, when she and other area merchants met with local bank representatives, Sanders and Police Chief Charles Goodlett.

The five points Sanders made up the new operation, on which the commission acted Monday night, were that:

- The "courier" would drive his own vehicle to the bank rather than ride in the police cruiser as in the past.

- The businessman won't call the police station to request the escort until he's ready to go.

- The escort will be provided as and when available.

- If, while the escort is following the businessman to the bank, he is needed elsewhere in an emergency, he will leave the merchant to continue the trip to the bank unescorted.

- Should the merchant need an escort back to his business, and his bank transaction takes some time, the escort won't wait on him. He will be required to make a second call to ask for the return escort.

Election officials OK

BELLE GLADE—The City Commission quickly approved a list of election officials for the Sept. 8 city election during a regular meeting Monday night.

City Clerk June Boglioli recommended once again that Dr. Cecil Conley be chosen to serve as clerk of the election, with assistance from W.C. Taylor Jr. and 13 inspectors to guide voters through their first experience with the computer card Votomatic balloting system.

"Of the 15 inspectors," Mrs. Boglioli said, "four will serve at the precinct registration books and four inspectors will assist with the registration books and polling lists."

"Two inspectors will issue the computer ballots and one inspector will be designated to receive the identification slips," she went on. "In compliance with state law, three inspectors will offer demonstration of the Votomatic to all electors. The remaining inspector will assist me with required affidavits and confirmation of questionable registrations."

The Votomatic system uses computerized punch cards rather than the old-style mechanical voting machine. It combines a number of stations where voters make their choices by punching pre-scribed holes corresponding with the names of their choice or candidates with an automatic counter.

Commissioner William Grear said he would like to see one of the Votomatic machines installed for demonstration purposes at the Lake Shore Civic Center and Jerry Roberts said he would also like to see one used at the Lake Shore Middle School gymnasium, where he pointed out a lot of potential voters circulate on a regular basis.

Mrs. Boglioli said she was sure she could arrange for the demonstrations, adding Palm Beach County Supervisor of

He got the point

POETIC JUSTICE of a sort was nailed to the driver of the truck who dropped an estimated 750 pound of nails on SR 80 just east of the Agricultural Research and Education Center last Thursday. Traffic was detoured around the accident on the north side of Hillsboro Canal for more than two hours while Belle Glade street sweeper Allen Doney pushed approximately 200 pounds of the nails to the sides of the highway and some motorists stopped to take advantage by picking up quantities of the fasteners. Truck driver Walt Olson, who was delivering the building supplies to Seminole Supply, in the meantime was held up while a repairman fixed four flat tires, caused when the 15 cartons of nails fell from the front of the truck under the dual tandems of his trailer.

Man shot, sees no one

BELLE GLADE—A local man was shot in the leg by an unknown assailant Tuesday evening when he was standing in front of the Starlight Bar at 301 S.W. Sixth St. Patrolman Ray Hamilton said Michael Smith, 19, of 200 N.W. Fifth St. in Belle Glade, reported he was standing in front of the bar when he heard three or four shots fired.

Although Smith said he didn't actually feel the impact of the bullet, he said his left leg started hurting and he looked down and saw it was bleeding. Smith then got in his car and drove to Glades General Hospital where he was treated and released.

Hamilton said Smith told him he didn't see anyone and didn't see where the shots were fired from.

I goofed!
Not that I don't goof often. Being human, I goof quite a bit. And all goofs are embarrassing, especially this one.

In last week's Cornerstones, I was pointing out the groups who have worked so hard on the four-laning of SR 30. One group I especially wanted to praise was the Canal Hazards Safety Committee, who was primarily responsible for the work done thus far.

Instead, the Lake Okechobee Traffic Council got put down in particular paragraph.

Sorry 'bout that, Safety Committee. You all are well deserving of praise, but the Committee is foremost in doing the job.

Not that the Traffic Council isn't. They are also doing a fine job. But just the same, the Safety Committee was receiving my bouquet of roses last week, even though they weren't named as such in that infamous paragraph.

With this week's Glades Shopper, we are announcing the new "TLC" package. And TLC doesn't mean Tender Loving Care. It means Total Lake Coverage.

By Total Lake Coverage, Montlake Media can get an advertiser's message into 20,000 homes on the western, eastern, and southern shores of Lake Okechobee.

In our particular area, it means that one or more of our publications is reaching virtually every house in South Bay, Belle Glade, and Pahokee.

Coupled with our other papers, the Clewiston News, the Glades County Democrat, and the Caloosa Belle, we can offer a type of service and coverage unlike that of any other organization.

We are preparing detailed pamphlets explaining TLC and how it works and if you'd like one of these pamphlets, give us a call at 996-2056 or 924-5571 and we'll get one to you.

Charles Adams came to work for us this week. He's a young man who comes to us via North Carolina and is experienced as both a reporter and photographer. And he's getting experience in advertising.

Through him, we hope to more thoroughly cover the events in the area both in advertising and in news. He's a personable young man and I think you'll like him when you meet him.

In celebration of National Aviation Day, August 21, Tilford's Aviation Center is planning an air show at Glades Airport in Pahokee.

James Tilford, former owner, said Mayor Ralph Kirk and Mayor Duncan Padgett, of Belle Glade and Pahokee respectively, have been asked for resolutions on the day and residents of both communities are being invited out to see the show.

Among the featured attractions will be Clint McHenry, a member of the world aerobics team, flying his Pitts Special and the radio controlled models that are occasionally flown at the airport.

Flying starts at noon and will last until four. So come out.

Opinion

You CAN fight city hall...and win

So who says you can't fight city hall?

Marsha Womack is proof of what a single person can do when she gets her dander up about something and follows through with some action of her own.

Mrs. Womack is responsible, to a great extent, for the revised police escort service the city will be providing merchants on their daily runs to local banks.

One of the first instructions the city commission delivered to City Manager Robert R. Sanders was to stop the escort service the police had been providing merchants for years...and there was good reason for that order.

Under the circumstances, police cruisers were not only acting as protection against possible robberies, they were also being used for a taxi service at a considerable expense to the city in actual cost and in a loss of protection in the zones the cruisers would normally have been used in.

So Sanders mailed notices to the businesses which had been using the service notifying them the escorts would be stopped as of Aug. 1.

And that's where Mrs. Womack came on the scene.

Reasoning the service provided a deterrent to crime, she enlisted the services of local attorney Frank Kreidler and passed around a petition asking the commissioners to reconsider their order.

When she appeared before the commission with the signed petition two weeks ago, she went a step further and made a counter-proposal to provide an escort only one-way, with the courier driving his own car.

With a few wrinkles added by Sanders, that plan was quickly agreed to in a meeting Friday between Sanders, Police Chief Charles Goodlett, Mrs. Womack and several other merchants and bank representatives.

The compromise was being provided was unquestionably too costly to the balance of the taxpayers for the benefits derived. On the other hand, a complete withdrawal of the service would have been an open invitation to anyone with a gun and the will to use it to get something for nothing.

And all it took was a young woman who felt the commission was wrong, an idea for a reasonable compromise and the stick-to-itiveness to see the idea through.

Tsk, tsk

One of the projects the State Department has been working on for the past several years has been what is known as the North-South dialogue...not between the states north and south of the Mason-Dixon line but between nations north and south of the equator.

Seems the Economically Developing Countries (referred to as EDCs) feel they've been trampled on by their neighbors to the north in an unjust economic system.

To atone for our sins, we blackbats will be allowed by the EDCs to make a number of economic concessions, pour money into the EDCs' economies, forgive them their debts they can't pay and send in hordes of technicians, in what is euphemistically termed "exchanges" of industrial technology.

They'll even allow us to revise the entire international marketing system to their benefit.

Sounds familiar, doesn't it? You either give us what we want or we won't like you.

Tsk, tsk and tsk.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Relax, the doctor advises. You're too tense.

Okay, doc, we know we're tense. But relaxing is easier said than done in the frantic pace of today's living, even in Florida where the so-called good life is taxing.

Well, here, sayeth the physician, is how it can be done.

In a scientific report on relaxation therapy and high blood pressure in the journal, Archives of General Psychiatry, C. Barr Taylor, M.D., and colleagues describe how they taught patients to bring down high blood pressure by a simple technique of relaxing.

They did it in research at the Stanford University Medical Center in California.

At the first session, the patients were told that relaxation reduces blood pressure, but only if the doctor's instructions are followed.

The doctor then answered the patient's questions and asked them to assume a comfortable position.

Then following a program of tensing and relaxing major muscle groups, beginning with the arms, moving to the head, neck and so on, followed by deep, slow breathing, while imagining a pleasant, peaceful scene of their own choosing.

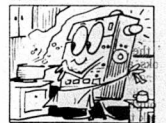

The patients were told to practice these techniques once a day. In tense situations during the day, they were told to take a deep breath, hold it momentarily, and imagine they were in a peaceful place, then think the word "relax" as they slowly exhaled.

The technique worked, according to the medicines. Those practicing relaxation therapy had a much better reduction on blood pressure.

Not then, everyone...take a deep breath, exhale slowly. Reelaxax.

The World Of Tomorrow

The U.S. Bureau of Census predicts that by 1980, there may be as many as 24 million Americans. That's not counting the people in the armed forces stationed abroad.

Some people say that in the future we will be cooking by computer: before a party you tell the machine how many people you're having and what you plan to serve and it will tell you how much of what to buy, and when and how to cook it.

Experts predict that by removing artificial controls on interstate natural gas prices we may save ourselves from being in an even worse position than we are today: forced to import natural gas at $4.5 per thousand cubic feet—double the highest price paid today for unregulated domestic supplies.

Some scientists expect that in the near future doctors may be able to detect, diagnose and treat diseases such as cancer—before they occur.

Sugar price support introduced as amendment to Farm Bill

With the backing of Mainland sugar cane growers and processors and beet growers' associations and processors, Congressman de la Garza (strongly supported by all members of the House from Louisiana, and a majority of members from Florida and Texas) would direct the Secretary of Agriculture to make price support available to sugar beet and sugarcane farmers, at not less than 55¢ of parity (approximately 14 cents per pound raw sugar basis).

Price support would be available through government loans or purchases. However, since the U.S. is an importer of sugar, actual loans or purchases would be unnecessary.

Section 22 of the Agricultural Act of 1949 provides that the Secretary and the President shall invoke import limitations or increase duties when imports or the threat of imports under Section 22 are interfering with the successful operation of the program. Import restrictions are now in effect for many commodities including for peanuts, cotton, and dairy products. With the proper handling of import restrictions, a market price equal to the support level could be achieved making loans unnecessary. Congressman de la Garza's amendment was amended twice on the floor.

Pahokee council adopts resolution

PAHOKEE—By a unanimous vote of all five council members present at their regular meeting Tuesday night, the City of Pahokee will join the City of Boca Raton in passing a resolution in favor of the properties within the city not being subject to sharing the cost of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Patrol.

Last year, the cost of the road patrol was spread out among the unincorporated areas but this year, the county commission is asking that a both unincorporated and incorporated areas share the cost alike, thereby increasing taxes for those living in incorporated areas while lowering taxes for those in unincorporated areas. Pahokee Police Chief Carmen Salvatore, III expressed his opinion that the road patrol is not the main benefit of the Sheriff's Office to the city's police department. In that respect, "I think we benefit them as much as they do us," he said, noting that such services as the Sheriff's Office's crime lab and detective forces are more beneficial.

The Council's vote went against Mayor Duncan Padgett's feeling that the resolution would not help the city one way or the other. "It just puts us in a bad situation with the county commission. Personally, I don't think we ought to adopt it," he stated, and "It's a benefit to have the Sheriff's patrol inside the city limits."

Auto insurance bill is still statewide concern

The new automobile insurance law continues to be a source of tremendous public concern. Questions on different aspects of the law are received daily from throughout the state. Since this topic is of such widespread interest, I will continue to answer these questions this week.

If you have any questions or wish to voice your opinion on any subject, please write to "Straight From Bill Gunter," Room 53, The Capitol, Tallahassee, Florida, 32304.

Q: What insurance do I need in order to get a state inspection sticker for my car?

BILL GUNTER: Until Jan. 1, 1978, all you must show at the automobile inspection station is proof of $5,000 Personal Injury Protection Insurance. After Jan. 1, drivers will no longer show proof of any insurance at inspection stations, but must show proof instead when they purchase license tags.

However, those drivers who are required to carry liability insurance because they have triggered the Financial Responsibility Law must continue to show evidence of liability insurance as well as Personal Injury Protection coverage.

Q: How long will the current rate freeze on auto insurance last? What kinds of coverage does it include? What do you expect to happen when the freeze ends?

BILL GUNTER: The rate freeze will be in effect until Jan. 1, 1978. It includes only private passenger automobile rates for Bodily Injury Liability, Personal Injury Protection and Uninsured Motorist coverage and it does not include rates for the Joint Underwriting Association.

During this time, your insurance rates for these types of coverage cannot be increased. Beyond that date, it is hard to tell what will happen. Without a major overhaul of the law or the insurance system, however, I fully expect rates to continue their upward spiral after Jan. 1, until the Legislature enacts appropriate changes in the law.

Q: If I receive a ticket, can my insurance company go up on my premiums? If I have an accident, can they cancel my policy or refuse to renew it?

BILL GUNTER: As of July 1, 1977, an insurance company cannot add a surcharge to the cost of your insurance because of a minor traffic violation unless the company shows a direct relationship between the violation and an accident.

These minor types of violations include those which do not involve accidents or cause suspension or revocation of your driver's license.

Also, a company can no longer cancel or revoke a policy which has been in force for 5 years or more solely because you are involved in a single traffic accident.

Gold Coast Gardener

by Gene Joyner
Urban Horticulturist
Palm Beach County

This time of year, even though it is still hot and we have typically summer weather, those of us who are going to put in vegetable gardens need to think about getting started. Here in Palm Beach County it is relatively easy to put in a home garden, it doesn't take a lot of space and can provide you with good quantities of delicious vegetables for your home table.

For new homeowners who have not put in gardens before, here are a few tips that would save you some trouble. When selecting a site in your yard for a garden, make sure it is out in the open where it will receive as much sunlight as possible. Very few vegetables tolerate shaded conditions and many types will not grow in shade at all.

Keep the garden area located away from large trees or hedges which will offer tremendous competition to your vegetables for water and fertilizer as well as possibly shading the garden area too much. Putting gardens close to the sides of buildings is another thing that should be avoided since buildings will shade a garden area for a large portion of the day.

If you have to have a garden in an area where it will only get sun for a portion of the day, place it where it will get morning sun if possible. This is important because of the fact that many plant diseases will be increased the longer that the foliage remains wet from dew or rains. With a morning or eastern exposure the vegetable foliage dries off more quickly thus reducing the dangers of disease development.

Gardens also have to be in well-drained areas and for most people this is not a problem; indeed, most of our soils are too well drained. If, however, you are one of those individuals that has a low area in the yard where when we have several days of heavy rains water will stand, be sure to avoid using this area for your garden. Most vegetables will be drowned if flooded for longer than 36 to 48 hours.

Another thing to avoid is trouble spots in your existing landscape where you are having difficulty growing lawn or shrubs. If you cannot get plants to grow in those areas, there possible is something the matter with the soil in that area and you would not be very successful using that area for a garden.

Once you have selected your garden site, in most cases it is beneficial to build up the fertility of the native soil by adding various types of soil amendments. These amendments can be things such as peat moss, compost, various types of manures or top soil.

If you are putting in a small garden, these materials can be broadcast over the entire garden area and then thoroughly worked in to a depth of six to eight inches. For large gardens where it would be prohibitively expensive to do the entire garden area, many people will do only the rows or beds where they are going to plant. This way the expense of soil amendments can be greatly reduced.

Before planting your first seed, it is important that you sit down and make up a plot plan presenting the precise location in the garden where your varieties of vegetables are to be grown. Make sure that taller growing vegetables are not planted along side small growing vegetables such as carrots or radishes. This way all the plants will get adequate amounts of light.

For information on setting up a garden properly, there are a number of excellent fact sheets and publications available from the County Agricultural Extension Offices at the following locations: 531 North military Trail, West Palm Beach, Florida 33406; 3188 PGA Boulevard, Palm Beach Gardens, Florida 33403; 345 South Congress, Delray Beach, Florida 33444; and 2879 State Road 15, Belle Glade, Florida 33430.

Pvt. Jones completes basic training

Marine Private Douglas B. Jones II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Jones I of 109 N.W. Ave. E in Belle Glade, has completed the Basic Supply Stock Control Course.

The seven-week course was conducted at the Marine Corps Service Support School at Camp Lejeune, N.C. The course was designed to prepare students for future assignment to supply administration and operation duties.

Students received instruction on the use of supply publications and catalogs, plus preparation and filing of naval correspondence and directives. Their studies centered on the procedures used in the Marine Corps to receive, issue, control and account for government property.

He joined the Marine Corps in January 1977.

Bumps, bruises and a few good laughs were had as participants went through events similar to those on the "Anything Goes" television show.

Events included an egg toss, a shoe relay, a water balloon relay and the finale was a pie-eating contest.

Refreshments were provided for the participants after the events. Judges were Gignie Davis, Helen Rutledge and Diane Wedgworth.

Letter to the President

The President
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President:

The Panama Canal, and our farflung bases scattered over the face of the earth should not be negotiable, but should be kept and maintained by us, if we are to continue to be the great nation that we are worldwide defending and supporting smaller nations, defending them and demanding that human rights and fair treatment be theirs as is our very own.

The Panamanians until this day have never had the knowhow to have dug and maintained the Panama Canal. If we had not dug it and maintained, seafaring shipping and commerce would still be sailing around the extreme end of southern South America. And our farflung bases that we have acquired by treaty, blood sweat and tears, should be kept and constantly maintained that we might be able to defend our earned freedoms that we have had since we became the U.S.A., and hope to keep while the Ship-of-Time sails a safe journey through perilous seas towards ETERNITY. Please think on these things.

Rodriguez-Molares wed in Belle Glade

BELLE GLADE—Miss Maria Elena Rodriguez became the bride of Jose Antonio Molares, in a double ring ceremony July 2, at St. Philip Benizi Catholic Church in Belle Glade.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Raul Rodriguez.

The front of the altar was decorated with two arrangements of carnations, chrysanthemums and babies breath, resting on white marble pedestals. Four similar arrangements on each side of the aisle, and strings of lilies of the valley on the benches completed the church's decorations.

Mrs. Carol Gonzalez, sang "Ave Maria," "Evergreen," "We've Only Just Begun," and the theme from "A Star Is Born," accompanied by the organist, Ismael Gonzalez.

Miss Rodriguez chose for her wedding day a traditional white gown fashioned with a high neck and transparent sleeves, both trimmed with Chantilly lace. The illusion veil was complemented with a headpiece of the same lace. She carried a cascade of red roses and babies breath.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Maria Ester Marrero, of New Jersey. She wore a burgundy floor-length qiana dress featuring a sheer waist-length cape of the same color. Burgundy and pink roses formed her hairpiece. Miss Marrero carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The bridesmaids were Mary Lockhart, Patricia Moran, Ana Gomez, Mary Rodriguez, cousin of the groom, Ana Rodriguez, Beatriz Solar and Sherri Partmutter, all cousins of the bride. They were dressed dusty rose color dresses identical to that of the maid of honor and they carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Luis Alonzo of Pahokee, was the best man. The ushers, wearing black tuxedos with white shirts trimmed in black were, Juan Antuna, Jose Antuna, Juan Baez, Tommy Brooks, Carlos Escobedo, Mike Poza and Tony Molares, cousin of the groom. Their boutonnières were white carnations.

Rosie Alfonso of Belle Glade served as flower girl. Her dress was similar to those worn by the bridesmaids. She carried a basket of pink carnations.

The ringbearer was Luis Manuel Gomez, also of Belle Glade. His tuxedo was the same as the ushers.

The bride's mother wore a light pink empire style floor-length qiana dress with a matching jacket. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The groom's mother was attired in an olive green long sleeved gown with a rose of a lighter green at the waist.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Elks Club in Pahokee.

A white lace tablecloth trimmed with red ribbons covered the main table. Two candelabras with flower arrangements of red carnations and white chrysanthemums were placed on opposite ends of the table. The cake, decorated with pink miniature roses, was placed in the center. An arch of red carnations, white chrysanthemums and greenery was standing against the wall directly behind the cake.

For the honeymoon, the bride chose a blue and white pant-suit as traveling costume with a white orchid corsage.

After a honeymoon touring Florida, the couple is now making their home at 363 W. Main St. in Pahokee.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raul Rodriguez of 909 N.E. 23 St. in Belle Glade. She is a 1974 graduate of Pahokee High School and is presently employed by F. H. Poteste Jr., M.D.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Morales of 331 Parkview Court in Pahokee. He is a 1974 graduate of Pahokee High School and is currently employed by Osceola Farms.

1 box raisins

Boil the above for five minutes and let cool. Add one heaping tsp. baking soda, sifted with 3 cups flour. This recipe will make a 2 layer cake. Bake in a moderate oven for about 35 to 40 minutes. Use well-greased bread tins lined with waxed paper.

Elections

Elections Jackie Winchester has also been working with County Urban League President Percy Lee in still another education program to acquaint city residents with the new voting system.

Greer said that educational program is already underway, those efforts, sample machines are also available for demonstration purposes at the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce and the four local banks and savings institutions.

One other major change in the city's voting habits was emphasized Friday when the City Fire Department moved into its new quarters on Second Street in McDonald Park.

The commission moved several weeks ago to hold the 1977 city election in the new fire station instead of in the familiar polling place of the old fire station.

Besides Conley and Taylor, Mrs. Boglioli named as election workers Janice Harville, Frances R. Hand, Janice Suttle, Jessie Lee Redding, Shari Lohmann, Mattie Lealand, Reba Taylor, Beatrice Rumph, Georgina Garza, Sylvia Allen, Evelyn Wallace, Lucille Williams, Judy Schiele, Willie Mae Hickman and Sue Teets.

The Consumer's side

If you have any questions, please write to Mrs. Lee F. Humberly, Consumer Services Coordinator, The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, The Mayo Building, Tallahassee, Florida 32304.

QUESTION:
Can you tell me if the turbine vents for roofs are effective? I have heard a great deal about cutting utility bill costs with these ventilators and wonder if they are as good as advertised.

ANSWER:
During this season of the year companies that advertise attic ventilators are active. Consumers should read and study all claims carefully! They usually claim to provide the equivalent of one ton air conditioners, saving 25% or more on air conditioning costs.

Actual testing though, has proven the above claims false.

Most houses in Florida have attic ventilation. This is a building code requirement to prevent moisture condensation in the winter. Screened eaves or gable vents are found in most homes. The addition of turbo-ventilation has very little effect on temperatures at the critical points, and it may even create a turbulence that raises the temperature at these critical points by disturbing natural stratification. If your attic has no openings, perhaps turbine ventilation might help. However, installation of screened eaves or gable vents would be just as effective and required no expenditure for operation.

QUESTION:
My best friend is having a great deal of trouble with her hearing and is ready to buy a hearing aid, and I think she should seek professional advice before she makes a purchase. Who should she contact?

ANSWER:
There is nothing funny about being hard of hearing. A hearing loss can seriously affect everything from social relationships to job performance.

But consumers who think their hearing is failing should not let themselves be pressured or tricked into buying a hearing aid. Unscrupulous or ill-trained hearing aid sales people may take advantage of the hard of hearing by making false promises and claims about the benefits of the hearing aid they sell.

If you are having hearing difficulties, don't panic. Instead, follow these guidelines:
*Have your ears checked by a doctor, preferably one who specializes in diseases of the ear.
*It may be possible to correct your hearing loss with medical treatments or surgery.

*If the doctor thinks that your hearing might be helped by a hearing aid, asked to be referred to an audiologist. An audiologist is a person specially trained to give hearing tests, and he can determine what kind of hearing aid is best for you.
*Purchase the hearing aid with care.

*Make certain you tell the dealer what kind of hearing aid the audiologist recommended.
*Compare the prices of at least three dealers before buying.

*Get all the facts about the hearing aid-including its complete cost and guarantee-in writing before you buy.
*Don't let yourself be pressured or intimidated by the sales person. Consider the purchase carefully for a day or two.

REMEMBER:
*Some hearing problems can't be helped by hearing aids.
*One kind of hearing aid will not help all hearing problems.

LABELS:

Foods have them too

By Dian Lidinsky,
Registered Dietitian,
Everglades Memorial Hospital

I doubt if any of us ever bought a dress or a pair of pants without first looking at the label. Naturally, the label tells us the size but labels also identify the material content. From this we know how to clean the garment and also what we can expect in the way of wearing characteristics (wrinkle free, warm, cool, etc.).

How many of us look at the labels of the foods we buy? I doubt if many consumers interpret the fine writing on the back of the can or side of the box. However, we really cannot be blamed for our negligence in this respect because most of us do not really know what to look for on a label.

First of all, canned foods are graded for size and appearance. Small sweet peas, mushrooms, or pickles are priced higher than large sweet peas, mushrooms, or pickles. While on the other hand, large olives and peach halves cost more than pink salmon; yet, the food value and the taste are not affected.

Naturally, there are times when we are very concerned about the appearance of certain canned foods, such as perfectly shaped button mushrooms to enhance the appearance of the broiled steak. We then must make the judgement as to whether or not the appearance is worth the extra cost.

Food processors are required by law to identify contents and quality of food packages. In fact, there are four major types of legal protection to help us judge the quality of foods at the market.

The laws are as follows: Labels must show

- 1) substitutions or removal of valuable ingredients (refined cereal is an example).
- 2) minimum standards of quality are required and when food is substituted the labels must so indicate (such as soybeans added to hamburger).
- 3) grade must be designated (eggs—grades A, B, etc.).
- 4) artificial flavorings or colorings or the addition of some other food must be declared (fruit drinks are a good example).

The requirement that 'quantity be stated on labels of canned and packaged foods is part of the federal food law enforced by the Food and Drug Administration. The quantity of food stated refers to the amount of food exclusive of wrapping or container materials, but it includes any brine, sauce, sirup, or other packaging medium if it is edible. The quantities must be stated by weight in either ounces or grams.

We have discussed how to evaluate the contents of the package according to weight, quality, and appearance, but what about protein, carbohydrates, fat, vitamins, and minerals? We will discuss this aspect of food labeling next week.

Should you have any questions about what we discussed this week or about anything at all related to food or diets, please let me hear from you at the Everglades Observer.

Housing could be eased soon

other two alternatives were deemed impractical at this time. Acree told the commission Monday night, however, the $34,000 would be a major problem.

"Several people have tried to develop this park" he said, "and I assure you if we can work this out, we can make the development go."

He said the margin of profit was being drawn so fine, though, that the $34,000 impact and development fee could mean the difference between success and failure.

When Mayor Kirk asked him what he thought a fair price would be, Acree responded with "anything up to $10,000," which was the figure finally decided on. Kirk and Commissioners William Grear and Tom Altman said they felt the benefit in added in housing to the Belle Glade area would be worth the $24,000 difference.

The commission wasn't quite as ready to compromise with another facet of the alternative. The city plan call for tapping the park's sewer system into a force main running from Okeechobee Center to Lift Station 13, with the city taking over ownership and maintenance of the main from the point of entry.

Belle Glade Housing Authority spokesman Jim Humphries told the commissioners his board of directors would rather have the city take over the force main from the Okeechobee Center property line but the commissioner demurred on that point.

Market complies and reopens

PAHOKEE—Cabrera's Market of 725 E. Main St. has passed a county health inspection and thus is again open for business.

The market was cited on July 20th for offering "uninspected beef and pork from an unapproved source" for sale to the public. The market was closed until a meeting could be held on July 28th between the owner, Jose Cabrera, and the Environmental Control Hearing Board.

In order to reopen, the establishment had to be thoroughly cleaned and sanitized. Charles Rhodes, Director of Environmental Sanitation for the Palm Beach County Health Department, said that Cabrera had complied with their request and the conditions of the store are acceptable for business re-opening.

Pahokee Library is still a member

PAHOKEE—Upon approval by the Pahokee City Council and submission of a signed agreement, the Loula V. York Memorial Library will continue to be a member of the Palm Beach County Library System.

"It was due to a misunderstanding that we were to be taken off in the first place," Mayor Duncan Padgett said of Pahokee's apparent removal from the county library system at the end of the year's agreement - September 30th.

Pahokee neglected to sign a new agreement within a specified time period and so was supposed to be taken off the list of county members.

The Pahokee library may receive 18% assistance from the county to help pay for books and salaries. And that amount, computed from past records, would amount to approximately $2,000.

The library must submit a copy of their 1976 audit, bring the agreement before the city council for approval or denial and, if approved, submit the agreement to the county library system, Padgett said. The agreement for the next fiscal year begins October 1 of this year. Eight libraries are members of the Palm Beach County Library System after one, West Palm Beach, pulled out of the system.

Family "brings Europe home" to Belle Glade

BELLE GLADE—The Ronald Cameron family, of 200 S.E. Seventh St. North, couldn't go to Europe this summer, "so we brought a bit of France here," Mrs. Cameron said.

The "bit of France" came in the form of International Student Exchange participant Francois Jacquin, 22 of Paris, France. Jacquin, who is a second year medical student at the University of Paris, has spent the past four weeks with the Camerons.

"Tuesday," Francois said, "we go to Cape Kennedy for one day and then to Disney World for one day."

Jacquin said he learned about the exchange program through a magazine called "France-USA" when his father, a Paris physician, called him to his office and said he thought it would be a good idea for him to take advantage of the program's offer of a three week vacation in an American home combined with three weeks of school. He said he was supposed to have spent his six weeks with another family in the West Palm Beach area but a death in that family forced a rearrangement of plans and, after spending a week with one of the program's officials, Cameron was contacted.

Cameron, who Francois refers to as his "American fahzir," said he has been interested in the program for some time now and hopes to host other exchange students in the facilities.

For his part, Jacquin said he said enjoyed his stay in Belle Glade, taking advantage of the small town atmosphere to meet a lot of new friends.

"My family," he said, "owns a country home 40 miles from Paris. It is near a small town, like Belle Glade. And like Belle Glade, I know everyone there."

He said he hopes to return to Belle Glade in October to stay for about six months but he hasn't discussed his plans with his parents and he isn't sure how they would react.

"My father is a doctor," he said, "and he wants me to be a doctor too. Maybe I will, maybe I will not. If I come back here in October, I would have to miss much school, so I don't know."

Although Francois said this is the first trip he has made to Florida, it's his second visit he's made to America, touring the country with his parents two years ago and flying to Niagara Falls with a short trip into Canada. He said he has also traveled over all of Europe and into North Africa and Russia with his family and by himself.

Cameron said he was particularly interested in Francois' account of how the Russian people struck him as being happy although they had very little.

The two said they have also discussed the political, economic and social differences between France and the United States, Cameron noting, for instance, that while he and his family, like most Americans, think "nothing of leaving a half-empty plate at the dinner table, Francois eats everything he is served."

Jacquin also said he has found a number of interesting differences between his life in France and what he's found in Belle Glade, adding he appreciates the absence of Communists and Socialists here.

"In France, and all over Europe," he said, "there are more and more Communists and Socialist and I don't like that. I am a Capitalist and I believe capitalism is better than socialism. I may be wrong but I don't think so."

Jacquin said another difference he's noted is the higher taxes in Europe, saying the license plates for Cameron's Cadillac would probably cost approximately $1,000 year. He said he owns a Peugeot, a car considered small in America but somewhat large in France, and his license plates cost him 300 Francs, about $60, annually.

During his stay with the Camerons, Francois said he has met a large number of local residents while walking down town, going to work with Cameron and his wife and traveling to Florida Atlantic University with a friend, where he sits in on her Spanish classes.

Cameron told of one thing Jacquin did during his first week in Florida when he walked from Boca Raton to Fort Lauderdale to see some friends. "That's 20 miles through city traffic in a strange country," he said, "and if I'd wanted to go 20 miles and the only way I had was to walk, I probably wouldn't have gone."

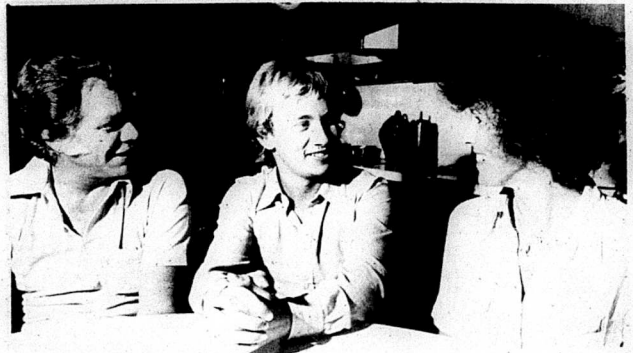

Francis said the trek was unusual for him, "but I wanted to go, so I went. I was tired and my feet did not like it. (They were blistered)," Cameron said, "but I wanted to do it."

The give-and-take bantering atmosphere between Jacquin and the Cameron was accentuated one afternoon this week when Cameron introduced Francois to Sandra Vavias, who came into the Cameron house with Cameron's daughter, Cathy.

"If you wanted to stay in America," Cameron teased, "you could marry her and stay here."

"And why not, Francois shot back. 'She is a sweetie, is she not?'"

Jacquin said he hopes to be able to return to Belle Glade in October but Cameron said that perhaps some day he and his wife would be able to visit France and visit Francois in his home.

His American Family

"I WILL LOOK into ze eyes of my moozir," Francois Jacquin said, explaining he thinks of Jeanette Cameron as his "American mother" and Ron Cameron as his "American father."

"Francois' English has improved since he's been here," Cameron said, "but he's affected me too. (During the entire conversation, he spoke with the odd cadence of Jacquin, who is only casually familiar with the language.) I've got a French accent now. The Camerons agreed the visit has been an interesting experience and Mrs. Cameron said, "Since we couldn't go to Europe this year, we brought a bit of France to us. There could be a general exchange, however, with Francois taking "a bit of America" back with him. Talking about what he would do if he is able to return in October, he jokes, "Maybe I be a cowboy. I already have the hat."

Carter's labor proposals are too pro-labor, says Bureau

GAINESVILLE—President Jimmy Carter's proposals to amend the National Labor Relations Act are far too favorable for labor, says the president of Florida's largest farmer organization.

"I am extremely concerned about the growing economic and political power the labor unions have managed to acquire in this country," says Walter J. Kautz, president of Florida Farm Bureau Federation (FFBF). "No group of corporations is allowed to get together and close down an entire industry. Yet it is perfectly legal for a labor union."

Carter's proposed amendments to the NLRA, HR 8410, have been endorsed by organized labor.

Kautz says FFBF is opposed to expanding the NLRA board from five to seven members as proposed by organized labor. He does not believe the size of the board has anything to do with delays in decisions making and suggests hiring a larger staff if necessary.

"We are not opposed to the right of the worker to organize into nonprofit unions and act collectively to improve their economic welfare, and strongly favor amendments to the NLRA to require secret ballot elections on representation, maintaining and resuming strikes," says Kautz.

"Our growers," says Kautz, "have experienced needless losses due to the power of unions — embargoes of grain exports at port facilities, interruption of vital transportation services and strikes at food processing plants."

According to Kautz, it is time Americans take a close look at the power of unions and see who is running them — labor bosses or the workers whose dues support the union.

Five hundred enjoy Palm Beach Fun Day

BELLE GLADE—The Palm Beach County Youth Service Bureau sponsored an eight hour fun day for 500 area youths at the John Stretch County Park, near Lake Harbor Wednesday, Aug. 3, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Ms. Celester Monroe, head of the Glades Office of the Palm Beach County Youth Service Bureau said all of the children from Pahokee, the Padgett Island Center and The Fremd Village Center along with the children of the South Bay Recreation Department made the trip.

Two large busses and several cars made the trip to the park.

The events starting at 9 a.m. included softball games between Fremd Village, Padgett Island and South Bay. With Fremd Village winning the tournament, South Bay second and Padgett Island third.

Ribbons were awarded to each of the team participants.

Othe events included wheelbarrow races, broad jump, together-ness races, tug-of-war, hoop contest, softball throw, football, fishing and skateboard contests and relay races.

A cookout lunch was also provided for the youngsters. The menu consisted of grilled hot dogs, bake beans, cole slaw, watermelon, raisin and peanut butter cookies, milk and orange juice.

The meal was prepared by the cafeteria workers from Pahokee High School, and doughnuts and punch was donated by McDonalds and Country Kitchen restaurants in West Palm Beach for the afternoon snack.

The field day was an ending to an eight week summer program which ended Friday, August 5. Mrs. Mamie Byness, director of the South Bay recreation department said she would like to thank the many parents, the South Bay Police Department and the Mandy Food Store for their cooperation and donations to the program.

Mrs. Monroe said the Pahokee Program was supported by several local organizations including Sam Knight Farms, A Duda and Sons, Quaker Oats and Royal's Department Stores.

Early losses avenged

By Karen Hansford

BELLE GLADE—In the ninth week of Glades Women's softball, the Local 2152 and Wallis Pharmacy teams avenged earlier losses to Miami Herald and South Bay Growers respectively in games played Tuesday and Thursday.

Local 2152 played a game of catch-up ball, moving ahead of Miami Herald in the sixth inning on an eight-run rally.

The Miami Herald girls led off with four runs in the first inning, then Local evened it up in the second, taking advantage of fielding errors. In the third inning, Local edged ahead by one as the team added three runs to Miami Herald's two. Julie Kornya knocked a double into centerfield for one of the runs.

It was Miami Herald's turn to take the lead in the fifth inning after both teams added a run in the fourth. Kay Gingery started off with a single, then scored the first of three runs as Michelle Jordan and Rachel Mills followed. Runners were left stranded on all three bases for the third time in the game when Donia Adams fled out to centerfield.

Behind 10-8, the Local players rallied together, with the first six batters scoring. Two more runs were made for a total of 16 before Julie Kornya, who had blasted her second double attempt of the game, was tagged while attempting to go to third base.

Miami Herald could muster little offense in the bottom of the inning and bowed to Local, 16-10.

In one of the lowest scoring games of the season, Wallis Pharmacy pushed three runs across the plate in the final innings to top South Bay Growers, 5-3. South Bay had beaten Wallis in an earlier meeting, the team's only loss of the year.

Wallis led off with two in the first inning on runs by Karen Hansford and Doris Velez. Both teams played top-notch defense in the next two innings, allowing no score.

South Bay tied the game in the top of the fourth inning when Cindy Riddle and Kim Miller crossed the plate, both reaching base on errors. Miller had smashed a hit into deep leftfield which was missed by the leftfielder.

Lisa Smith added a run in the fifth inning for South Bay to go ahead, but Wallis came back with two runs, again by Hansford and Velez, to regain the lead. Rhonni Cox added the last run for Wallis in the sixth inning as the defense held South Bay to three consecutive outs in the seventh to win, 5-3.

In one of Thursday's games, Dixie Fried Chicken "plucked" Glades Sugar for 21 runs in a 21-7 rout over the green team.

Dixie Fried started off strong in the first inning with five runs. Diane Wedgworth, Norma Santos and Gail Exum each hit singles to help the team. Judy Snyder, Lisa Logan and Ann Allen went home for Glades Sugar's runs.

Santos, Wedgworth and Erma Vasquez made another three for Dixie Fried in the second and Eva Webb added one for Glades Sugar to make the score 8-4. That was all for Glades Sugar in the next three innings, although the runners did threaten in the fifth, loading the bases, but third baseman Vasquez grabbed Lisa Scott's fly to end the inning.

Meanwhile, the Dixie Fried players tallied up six more runs, with Sharon Humphrey and Wedgworth walloping back-to-back triples in opposite fields. Humphrey, who went four-for-five, also knocked a two-base hit into rightfield.

After holding their opponents to no score in the sixth inning, the Glades Sugar members got going and scored another two runs on Lisa Logan's double to make it 14-6, but Dixie Fried went wild in the seventh and racked up seven more runs to put the game away.

Glades Sugar's lone run in the bottom of the seventh came when Gail Hartwick doubled and then went home on Michelle Beasley's hit for a final score of 21-7.

In Tuesday's first game, Aug. 4, Miami Herald broke loose in the fifth inning for six runs to protect a lead over Dixie Fried Chicken and went on for its fifth win of the season.

The girls took the lead in the first inning with a run by Rachel Mills, while holding Dixie Fried to nothing. Erma Vasquez had whacked a ball into left field for a double but was left on base as Judy Curtis fled out to rightfield for the third out.

There was no score in the second inning, then Janie Priest added one in the next for Miami Herald to lead, 2-0. Louise Herring and Lynn Vann rounded the bases in the top of the fourth to tie the game, but Dixie Fried broke the tie in the fifth when Rita Schoenfeld drew walks and scored.

Kay Gingery got a double and Michelle Jordan a triple as the Miami Herald players went for six runs in the fifth and held Dixie Fried to one for a score of 10-3. The Dixie Fried batters weren't done, however, as they held Miami Herald to no score in the sixth and last inning then pushed three runs across to threaten before the final out was made at second base on a forced runner, with the bases loaded, making the final score 10-6.

Glades Women's Softball League Standings as of 8/8/77: Wallis Pharmacy, 11 wins and one loss; Local 2152, eight wins and four losses; Miami Herald, South Bay Growers, Dixie Fried Chicken, five wins and seven losses; Glades Sugar, two wins and 10 losses.

Time limits are set by USDA for providing food stamp benefits

WASHINGTON—Carol Tucker Foreman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture has announced regulations requiring that eligible applicants for the food stamp program receive benefits within a prescribed period of time.

Under these amendments to food stamp program regulations, eligible households must be authorized to buy their food stamps within a time limit that begins the day the state welfare agency receives the food stamp application, and ends the last day of the following month.

If a household does not receive authorization to purchase food stamps within the prescribed time limit, their lost food stamp benefits must be restored. Lost benefits are calculated from the first day of the month which follows the month of application.

For example, a household applying in March would have to be able to purchase its food stamps before the end of April. Otherwise, the full amount of bonus stamps the household should have received in April is restored. Benefits are restored by increasing in future months the amount of bonus stamps the household is entitled to receive.

Although food stamp regulations require states to approve or deny a food stamp application within 30 days, until now there has been no time limit on actually giving an eligible household this opportunity to purchase their food stamp allotment.

The amended regulations also establish a procedure for restoring lost food stamp benefits to "zero purchase" households—those that get food stamps free because they have little or no income. These households would have benefits restored by increasing their monthly stamp allotment by up to 50 percent.

—state that a household can claim lost benefits if an incorrectly high purchase requirement prevents the household from obtaining all the food stamps to which it is entitled.

Vida Cristiana Latina

"AUTENTICIDAD DE LOS EVANGELIOS" Hace como unos 8 meses, visitaba yo a un prominente clérigo a quien encontré preocupado por lo que publicara un periódico de Miami, sobre una crítica a la Biblia. El comentario decía en parte: "15 décadas después de Cristo, aun no se había establecido la veracidad de los Evangelios de la Biblia". Aunque no comente verbalmente, sí pensé que era RIDÍCULO, que en ministro llamado "cristiano" y que pasara por un Seminario, se preocupara por tan falsa y ladina declaración, ya que la historia y la arqueología han probado la autenticidad histórica de los Evangelios. VEAMOS. El catálogo más antiguo de los libros de "Nuevo Testamento" donde están los Evangelios, se encuentra en la propia Italia, en la Librería Ambrosiana de Milán. Es una copia en latín de los originales y es del año 170 después de Cristo, solo a 7 décadas después de la muerte de San Juan.

En cuanto a la evangelista Lucas, era médico (Colosenses 4:14) San Pablo lo llama: "Lucas el médico amado", no solo escribió su Evangelio así como también "Los Hechos de los Apóstoles" fue escudrinador e investigador de los sucesos que luego puso en orden (Lucas 1:1).

Sólomente en el capítulo 3 de su Evangelio para establecer la fecha de la aparición del Mesías Jesucristo, cita a siete funcionarios del Imperio Romano, así como lugares y fechas. Empieza por Tiberio Cesar en el año de su reinado como emperador de Roma, Poncio Pilato gobernador de Judea. (El nombre tanto de Tiberio como de Pilato fue encontrado en 1961 por los arqueólogos en Cesarea) Herodes Antipas, hijo del finado Herodes el Grande, y a Filipo su hermano, a quien le quitó la esposa, y por ser reprendido, decapitó a Juan el Bautista.

Filipo era tetrarca (Tetrarca quiere decir gobernador) de Iturea, Tracónite, Lísanias, y Abilite. Estas son regiones que aun existen en Palestina. Lucas también cita el pontificado de Anas y Caifas en Jerusalén.

Otro hecho histórico es el empadronamiento (Censo) que ordenó Augusto Cesar y que motivó la ida de Jose y Maria a Belen, ciudad en que nació Jesucristo. Esto esta registrado en el libro de San Lucas capítulo 2:1, y esta acompañado por otro nombre histórico que corrobora la autenticidad de dicho Evangelio. Este funcionario publico fue Cirino (Quirino) quien era gobernador de Siria. Vea su Biblia Nacar Colungar Catolica en la pagina 1062 y 1065.

La autenticidad de Cirino como personaje histórico esta probada por el libro "Y la Biblia tenia razon" con el imprimatur Nihil OBSTANT (Aprobacion Catolica) de Werner Keller pagina 341.

Otro registro del Evangelio de San Lucas que esta en armonia exacta con la historia, es la profecía de la caída de Jerusalem en mano de los ejércitos romanos, capitaneados por Tito hijo del emperador Vespasiano. Ver Lucas 19:43, 44 y 21:20-24. Estos hechos estan corroborados por Flavio Josefo que era generalísimo del ejército judío en Galilea y al caer preso fue testigo ocular de los hechos y a la vez historiador para la posteridad.

Por ello, que se puede recomendar a muchos clérigos hoy. En vez de estar dudando de la veracidad de los Evangelios dada la actitud antisemita de muchos por la condición política actual de Palestina (Que nada tiene que ver con el contenido de la Biblia ni con sus profecías) y en vez de estar inmiscuyéndose en la política y cooperar con el comunismo ateo que niega a Dios como tantas veces a vociferado la radio y la prensa EN VEZ DE ESO, debían escudrinar las Escrituras para alimentar espiritualmente a los pueblos hambrientos de justicia y de verdades espirituales, y no hacerse ECO del "Espejismo político" al que solo se llega para alcanzar la decepción y el desengano mas cruel de la historia. Solo el Reino de Dios proclamado en el Evangelio de Lucas sera la verdadera esperanza a toda la humanidad. Los Evangelios por tener la verdad espiritual e histórica son la única guía segura a los pueblos, por ello LEA SU BIBLIA E INVESTIGUELA.

PARENTS' RESPONSIBILITY

"Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6

Ask anyone what his most precious possession is, and he will almost invariably say, "My children." The desire for the welfare of our children enables us to "move mountains". We will do anything, give them anything, if we think it will help them.

The one most important thing we can do for them, however, is to instill in them a love of God, and a desire to obey him. The church can help you in this endeavor, inspire and strengthen you. We invite you to take your family to church this week. It may make a great difference in the life direction taken by your children.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long endure and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
